

Mr. Powell, chair of the FCC, has shown disregard and contempt for the views of the American people and their representatives who do not agree with his attempt at greater media consolidation. This change needs to be given close attention and requires more public discussion. It is impossible to do this when the actual language of the change has not been made public. It is urgent that Mr. Powell delay the vote on media consolidation and give all parties the opportunity to have a real public debate on this important
